Q: What is the law on stopping for school buses? I understood that drivers on both sides of the highway must stop while a school bus is loading or unloading, but I have seen cars on the opposite side of the road proceed without stopping. Aren't they breaking the law?

A: The state law governing overtaking and passing a school bus now reads as follows: "The driver of a vehicle upon a highway inside or outside a business or residence district upon meeting or overtaking from either direction any school bus which is stopped on a highway for purpose of receiving or discharging any school children shall stop the vehicle before reaching such school bus when there is in operation on said school bus a visual signal as specified in Section 124 (flashing lights on front and rear), and said driver shall not proceed until such school bus resumes motion or a signal by the school bus driver to proceed or the visual signals are no longer actuated. The driver of a vehicle upon a highway with separate roadways need not stop upon meeting or passing a school bus which is on a different roadway or when upon a controlled access highway and the school bus is stopped in a loading zone which is a part of or adjacent to such highway and where pedestrians are not permitted to cross the roadway."

of Blooming Grove. The motion by Simmons, seconded by Pct. 4 Comm. Billy Hargrove, passed unanimously.

During the meeting, Forrest Green, candidate for the 27th District House of Representatives state seat, entered the courtroom and spoke to the commissioners a few mements, then sat through part of the atternoon session.

One of the items brought up earlier during the afternoon session was appointment of Simmons and Pct. I Comm.

No exception to the rule is Walter James Woodman, the attorney who resides in Waxahachie and is running as a Democratic Party prospect.

Woodman said his best qualification as compared to the other candidates is that he is an attorney.

"If a person is not a lawyer," he said, "it can be difficult for him to adequately serve the people as a legislator. Some of the greatest presidents in the United States were lawyers."

Woodman presented a list of items upon which he said he would seek enactment of legislation if elected to office. One of his aims is that the Courts of Civil Appeals be made Courts of Appeals and have appellate jurisdiction over criminal cases as well as civil cases and that the present Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin be made the Supreme Court of Criminal Appeals and have appellate authority by "writ of error" from the other Courts of Appeals in criminal matters only. He added that the Supreme Court of Texas would, under this proposal, retain appellate authority over civil matters. "The Court of Criminal Appeals now is being swamped with cases," he said.

WALTER WOODMAN

Woodman added that the methods should be found to insure individuals a right to a speedy trial. He said cases linger on in state court for sometimes a year, and if no bond is posted the accused person remains in jail until the trial is held. The Waxahachie attorney believes the bail bond system in Texas should be reformed.

Claims Man In Groesbeck

GROESBECK-A flaming truck-train collision here Wednesday afternoon claimed the life of a 43-year-old Groesbeck native.

John E. Kilpatrick, a lifelong resident of the area, died when his pickup burst into flames after colliding with a Southern Pacific freight train at about 2:15 p.m.

Groesbeck Police Chief Dennis Walker said Kilpatrick, an employe of the Limestone County Road and Bridge Department, apparently died of burns suffered in the fire. Funeral was to be at 3 p.m. today in the Kibler Funeral Chapel. Burial was to follow in Faulkenberry Cemetery.

Survivors include a son, Kelly Matthew Kilpatrick, also of Groesbeck.

Tarrant Countian New City Manager

Corsicana's search for a city manager is over as a selection has been made from among 21 applicants, Mayor Sue Youngblood announced Friday, and will be confirmed by the City Commission at its meeting next Tuesday.

Mayor Youngblood announced that the City Commission has hired Jack D. Russell, 35, currently city manager of North Richland Hills, a Fort Worth suburbs. Russell's employment is effective March 1 at a salary of $17,000.

The successor to Bob Brockman was one of three applicants called back to Corsicana for a second interview by all members of the City Commission after Mayor Youngblood and Commissioners H. R. Stroube, Jr., and P. D. Fullwood functioned as a committee to screen all candidates seeking the position.

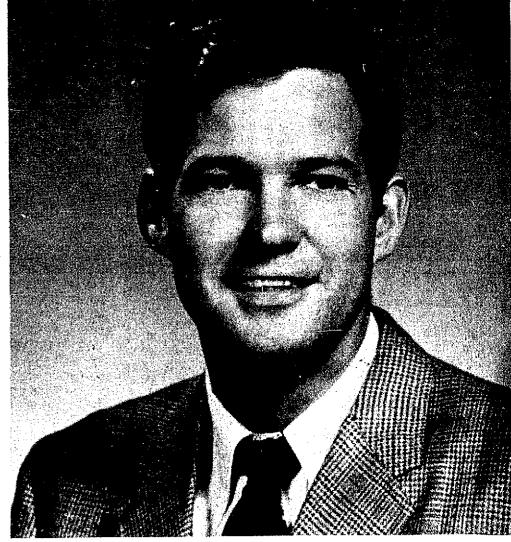

"We feel that Mr. Russell has the experience and education which we need to assist us in the implementation of our Master Plan for the city and we are proud to be able to obtain his services," Mayor Youngblood said.

He has been city manager at North Richland Hills for the past two years and prior to that had been an administrative assistant at Colorado City and employed by the tax assessor and collector for the Morton Independent School District.

In announcing the appointment, Mayor Youngblood noted that Russell gained considerable recognition at North Richland Hills for his efforts in acquiring and improving a water and sewer system for that city and for his ability to obtain federal and state grantin-aid funds for the city. He was also a leader in promoting cooperative agreements among cities in Tarrant County to provide better municipal services at lower costs.

Russell was reared in Morton, near Lubbock, and was graduated from high school there in 1953. He is a 1960 graduate of Texas Tech University with a degree in government. He did postgraduate work at Tech in local government administration.

He formerly served two terms as mayor in Morton where he owns and operated a successful independent insurance agency. His background includes three years service in the U.S. Navy from August, 1955 to August, 1959, and employment as a placement and employe-management assistant with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

He and his wife, Mary Ellen, are the parents of two children; a son, David, 11, and a daughter, Ann, 10. They are members of the Methodist Church.

When he assumes his new duties March 1, he will become Corsicana's fourth city manager since the managercommission form of government was adopted by Corsicana voters in 1956.

Since Jan. 1, Alton Justiss, veteranformer city secretary, has been serving as acting city manager in the interim while city officials chose a replacement for the former manager who resigned to accept a similar post in Killeen.

others stay in jail because they don't have money," he said. He later said some of these reforms may include efforts to have more people released on their personal recognizance, rather than just a few people having this privilege. He said there are a lot of people who make a handsome profit by simply getting people out of jail on bond.

Other matters on which Woodman said he will seek to have legislation enacted include: construction of a junior college in Waxahachie; construction of a new courthouse in Waxahachie; that new laws be enacted to safeguard horse owners; that there be insurance reform; that there be new laws enabling pollution control; that stronger conservation laws be enacted; that workmen's compensation rates be increased; that no state personal income tax be imposed on the public; that stronger laws be enacted for driving while intoxicated offenses; that an investigation be made of no-fault insurance in Texas to determine how it would work here; that a new Constitution be enacted for the State of Texas; and that more industry be brought to Navarro and Ellis Counties.

Another item upon which the candidate commented was the penalty for possession of marijuana. He said he thinks the offense would be a misdemeanor, but he would not go so far as to advocate legalization of marijuana. He pointed out that in Texas the marijuana law is so terrible that a person can be driving in a car with someone who has marijuana in his possession, and that innocent driver could be arrested and his car confiscated if the marijuana is found on the other person. He said in Texas a person can go to the penitentiary for life for conviction on a charge of marijuana.

Woodman, 31, was born in Talara, Peru, South America and raised in Peru, Ecuador, Canada and the United States. His father was in the oil industry. He speaks fluent Spanish.

He is married to the former Ruth Ellen Meyer of Shreveport and they and a baby son live on a small farm at Route 5, Waxahachie where they raise quarter

Woodman received his bachelor of arts degree at the University of Miami, Coral Gables, Fla., with a major in psychology and minor in history. He was graduated from Southern Methodist University School of Law in 1967.

He was admitted to practice law in 1967 and has since joined several law fraternities and organizations.

He is presently practicing law in a Dallas office.

A Japanese Meat Treat

By AILEEN CLAIRE NEA Food Editor

Japanese meals characteristically are simple and nutritious. Usually they consist of lean meat, pork, shrimp or fish and fresh vegetables. Those with new fondue units will enjoy the conviviality of entertaining guests with a Japanese fondue party. Cooking Shabu-Shabu is easy. Each guest dips his piece of beef or vegetable into a boiling broth. Topping off the meal is a cup of fine noodle soup made with the remaining broth. There is little work for the hostess in preparation or cleanup.

4 cup sherry 2 pounds tender boneless beef, thinly sliced Bermuda onion, sliced 12 head Chinese cabbage. cut in segments t bunch watercress (or ' pound spinach)

14 pound fresh mushrooms. sliced 2 cups fine noodles. uncooked

Pour broth and sherry into base of automatic fondue. Position tray and rack. Plug unit into outlet. Bring broth to a boil. Have beef and vegetables arranged on a platter, noodles heaped in a bowl. To serve, beef and vegetables are dipped into boiling broth and cooked to taste, then dipped in sauce. When all the meat and vege-noodles to remaining hot broth and cook until tender, about 3 minutes.

300 Attend BIG Session

Navarro County Agricultural Agent Gene Sears said the Blackland Income Growth Committee meeting at the Heart of Texas Fairgrounds exhibit building Tuesday was attended by about 300 people.

One of the principal speakers, according to Sears, were Dr. Tyrus R. Timm, head of the department of economics at Texas A&M University, who spoke about the economic future for the Blacklands area. Another important speaker was J. Dukes Wooters, executive Ernie Roche's son once remarked that he wished he had a talent like dear old Dad's and then added "How'd you get interested in wood carving, Pop?

By KIT BAUMAN

"Golden Circle" Editor

Dear Ol' Dad just grinned and said, "When I was a kid, we didn't have a TV ... that's the big difference."

Roche, a tree-top-tall man who owns and manages a drivein restaurant in Hubbard, figures he's had a knife in his hand ever since his boyhood and has always whittled on whatever was at hand.

Time and experience have given him the steadiest of hands, the surest of eyes. Where he once used just a penknife to whittle a sharp end on a stick, he now uses expensive chisels and blades to fashion such things as his recentlycompleted American eagle wall decoration, the type of thing one hangs proudly over a fireplace.

What little free time he has he spends carving pistol grips for handguns that friends bring to him; he once devoted a good deal of time to the rather involved business of carving and decorating rifle stocks.

The small, neat workshop located behind the two-story white frame house where his family lives and where Mrs. Roche has an antique store is lined with workbenches and tools. There's actually little evidence of his work there, for most of it is sold or given away to people who know of his ability. It's a specialized talent, one that he admits he wishes he could devote himself to full-time.

"Wood carving isn't a dying art, it's a dead art," he remarked recently.

Evidence of this abounds inside the rooms of his house that are set aside for the antique store. Scattered throughout the two rooms are old writing tables and pieces of furniture with all manner of scroll work and decorations, all done with a blade guided by the human hand. No evidence of massproduced work exists there.

The house itself is one of those fine old two-story frame homes that seem to abound nowhere else as they do in Hubbard. Roche notes that this is one of the things that seems to stand out in the minds of visitors to the town.

What better place, when you really come down to it, for making a showplace of the wood carver's art?

BLOOMING GROVE'S annual quarterhorse show rides upon the scene Saturday amid its usual cloud of dust.
